

Before... ↗

It didn't seem like Ms. Jackson's house sustained damage during Hurricane Harvey, but when she couldn't stop coughing, she realized she had an extensive mold problem. Although a friend connected Ms. Jackson with some contractors who claimed they could help fix her house, they dropped her case before they even started and never contacted her again. Katy Responds stepped in to pick up the slack, rounding up volunteers and raising funds. In less than six months, Ms. Jackson and her boys returned to a warm, welcoming home.
